INAUGURAL ADDRESS1 This high commission I receive from the State in a spirit of deep and reverent confidence that does not spring from any thought of personal resource. If all of the wealth of treasured memory and hope that this institution represents were an individual responsibility, it would be a burden too heavy to be borne; but this great company of her sons, and her kindred, and her friends is testimony to the wide and loyal fellowship of learning that hedges her securely round about, and makes the individual heart strong enough for anything. Nor less reassuring, as the standard passes to an untried hand, is the host of happy thoughts released by the presence of those who since the reopening gave themselves to her guidance in wisdom and complete devotion. To them to-day the institution pays the perfect tribute of her abundant life that they gave their strength to promote: to her latest leader, the architect of her material rebuilding, whose wise and patient care inwrought into her standard the ideals of modern scholarship; to his predecessor, whose sympathy 1 As president of the University of North Carolina, April 21, 1915, thetic insight and statesmanlike vision gave eloquent expression to the voiceless aspiration of his people and made him their interpreter, both to themselves and to the nation; to his predecessor, whose aggressive and brilliant leadership performed the essential service of making the University a popular right and privilege; to his predecessor--...
